Echos of hope

Project Number: 3
Location: Dhokaima Café, Patan
Collaborated with: The Prodigy Project
Specified Committee: Community
Area of Focus: Community Support, Creativity and Public Engagement

Introduction:

The Interact Club, in collaboration with The Prodigy Project, organized a creative community fundraising event at Dhokaima Café, Patan, on 12th September 2026. The event was designed to bring members of the community together through creativity, recreation, cultural activities, and self-expression while simultaneously raising funds for donation.

Participants contributed an entry fee of NPR 200, with the collected funds being allocated towards community donations. The event provided a welcoming environment where participants could engage in a variety of activities, interact with others, and contribute towards a meaningful cause.

Project Summary:

The event was held from 12:00 PM to 6:00 PM and featured a wide range of creative, recreational, cultural, and reflective activities. Participants had the opportunity to make handmade bracelets, paint, participate in creative workshops, and play a variety of games. Traditional and locally popular activities, including Nepali games such as Bluff Momo, were also organized to encourage interaction and cultural engagement. An open mic provided participants with a platform to share their talents and creative expressions. The event also included reflective activities such as a 10 Year Time Capsule, where participants could leave messages for their future selves, and a Reflection Wall, which allowed attendees to share their thoughts and experiences. A treasure hunt encouraged teamwork and participation, while diyo lighting added a cultural and meaningful element to the event.

Through the collaboration with The Prodigy Project, the event combined entertainment and creativity with community service. The NPR 200 entry contribution from participants supported the fundraising component of the project, allowing the event to contribute directly towards future donation initiatives.

Feedback from Attendees:

The attendees appreciated the variety of activities available throughout the event and enjoyed having a space where they could participate in creative and interactive experiences. Participants particularly engaged with the hands-on workshops, games, open mic, and reflective activities. The event also allowed attendees to socialize, express themselves creatively, and contribute to a community-oriented cause through their entry contribution.
